

QUIZ TIMES

January, 2010

Shaping up for a wild finish

With six quizzers below 7th, but 150 points or less from that magical spot, the final day of quizzing and the minicamp are shaping up to be high-impact quizzes. I would not want the job of predicting who might make the Revelation team this year.

A quick review of individual results:

1. The top seven quizzers locally receive trophies, regardless of whether they attend nationals. In addition, we award a rookie of the year and a Christian Character award.
2. The top three quizzers who register for nationals have an automatic berth on the Revelation team, but are still expected to be at the mini-camp.
3. The remaining four spots on Revelation will include year-long totals, plus scores based on the results of mini-camp. It appears that a change of up to 100 points from the year end is realistic if someone has a great mini-camp.
4. All other teams for nationals will be chosen on an individual basis, and will include year-long results plus mini-camp.

A quick review of team results:

1. After the regular season ends, teams will be seeded based roughly on bracket points.

2. 18 Teams will qualify for the playoffs on Feb. 13th as follows:
3. Each league will enter three teams based on total bracket points scored for the year.
4. Matthew/Mark and Luke/John will each enter 3 wild card teams based on the number of bracket points scored during the February quiz ONLY.
5. Note that the byes given to the top team in the past have been eliminated, as it led to the top team having no “double elimination” safety net like all the other teams did.

Nationals coaches will be picked in February

I (JimC) have elected to break my self-imposed rotation and I will be coaching Revelation out of sequence this year. Due to the fact that we won't have quizzing registrations until Feb. 6, I won't know how many other teams (or leagues) I need coaches for until then. Therefore, Nationals coaches will be selected after that time.

TFC events:

January 15-16 Conference on Christian Evidences III(COCE).

Nationals costs set

We have pared costs to the absolute minimum, but increases in travel costs have still required us to raise the cost of nationals for quizzers. Since I don't charge adults for travel costs, their costs remain unchanged from last year. Costs are:

- Quizzers: $430
- Asst. Coaches: $300
- Table Officials: $250

Please remember that $100 registration is due before we begin quizzing on Feb. 6th. If you fail to qualify for a team, that registration will be refunded. If you qualify but choose not to attend for any reason, that registration is non-refundable.

It is my hope that we can take 10 teams to nationals this year. I expect that economy and financial considerations will be the big factor in that.

Registration forms will be emailed along with a "Nationals Fact Sheet 2010" to all quizzers in our email database. These forms will also be available on our website.
